An Indigenous Australian's view of Constitutional recognition

'What I would like to see within the Constitution . . . is a very broad, encompassing principle of equality and equal rights that recognises Aboriginal People as having unique rights as well as human rights and citizenship rights – a broad principle but one that also recognises our unique position in Australia.'

Ms Thomas, extract from Transcript of Evidence,
Reforming our Constitution: A roundtable discussion,
House of Representatives, Canberra, 2008

- 11 The Australian Government is considering the recognition of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples in the Australian Constitution.

To what extent can government initiatives like this address the social justice experiences of Indigenous peoples in Australia and other countries?

All the Indigenous people would like to be is apart of the Constitution. Australian Aboriginals is writing there view on to be ~~be~~ apart of the constitution because they feel they need to be listened to and heard.

Indigenous people just want to be treated equally and NOT different to other countries.
