

Start here.

they use stronger & lighter compound metals and materials, which should last the lifetime of the car, and repairs are usually based on what is needed mainly manufactures will just replace an engine or the car if it is easier and scrap the old car giving the owner less trouble & time not having a car or waiting for a car part to be delivered or installed which could take an et amount of time leaving the person - persons carless and angry.