

The business Sunshine fruit Juices had employed 100 people to work in their Queensland factory.

The not so quite small business supplies large amounts of juice to the North America and Asia Supermarkets.

As the business is slowly becoming a larger business by operating in new areas. Since the business began in Australia, Sunshine fruit juice should begin to outsource and begin marketing ~~company~~ ~~campaigns~~ campaigns to see what the Asia and North American consumer would like. Having problems and getting complaints is how small business get problems quickly but harder to fix them. The main couple of problems all result from the factory as there is workplace disputes and angry customers about their product is either damaged or the labels on the bottle aren't labeled properly.

Human resources need to send someone down to the business as it could soon lose all of its consumers. Employees asking for higher wages, cannot be doing their job well if they expect to get more income as the ~~complaints~~ complaining customers talking about faulty products. Employees need to realise that working at a place like Sunshine fruit juice they would need to atleast make all of the products right by having the right labells and ensuring that there is no damage to the products when they leave the factory and would need to call/check up on the carrier that sends the juice away to all its businesses.

Instead of working in a dull factory where some of the machines are old and dusty, refirmishing the equipment and machines can help your business feel more warm

Where employees might not be in anymore disputes, try employees at a seminar that show what the best solution if a problem arises. Having employees wanting higher wages, its hard to give raises to employees who have been getting the product wrong shouldn't ask for higher wages but the manager should let employees know about why they won't get more pay and reasons why they would, this strategy (plan) will help motivate employees to do better and being more careful at the workforce to ensure no workplace accidents as the business will be paying more money for no reason.
