Question 23 (8 marks)

Explain how government legislation and policies affect the Australian food industry.

8

Policies and legislations are common throughout any Food industry. They must be followed correctly otherwise the industry may be shut down due to incorrect production. Such policies & legislations as OH & S (Occupational Health & Safety) must be followed within a workplace to prevent any injuries or even deaths. The legislations and policies are almost the same as rules set by the government that all Australian Food Industries must follow, and if these rules are 'broken' they must face all consequences such as fines, warnings and closing of industries.
