b). Achieving justice for parties involved in relationship breakdown is often complicated and difficult as there can be many factors involved. The emotional involvement often makes rational thinking and reasoning difficult to achieve and agreement is less likely to be attained.

The law effectively handles situations regarding relationship breakdown in multiple ways.

There are prevention laws put in place, such as marriage contracts such as ~~pre-nupt~~ pre-nuptial agreements.

~~These~~ These are used when somebody with many assets, such as money, property etc. and wishes to protect these assets in case of divorce. This means the partner who signs the ~~disa~~ agreement isn't entitled to anything, or some of (depending on contract) unless he/she has met the requirements, such as a certain period of time to be married before divorce. ^{In cases of divorce and disagreement of} ^{meetings are put in place}

^{with lawyers and. Both parties to determine} ^{outcome} ~~When children are~~ involved, decisions can be difficult. The law effectively handles this by providing the ability to seek legal help and attend custody battles, where a judge hears the two cases and determines the best arrangement for the children. This could be ^{shared} ~~joint~~ custody or sole custody and can also be supervised or unsupervised visits. ~~The~~ these cases are put in place to ensure the safety and wellbeing of the children.

~~When a divorce~~

Depending on whether this relationship includes just separation or divorce, both parties are given the right to seek legal assistance.

Obtaining legal advice, ~~help~~ or assistance ensures both parties are treated as equals and decisions are usually governed by pre-~~text~~ determined laws or examples.

Although all parties are not always happy with the outcome of relationship breakdowns, ~~and~~ the law is effective ~~in the~~ in the fact that these pre-determined laws provide a ~~to~~ guideline and is appointed ~~to~~ all couples experiencing the same issues. The effectiveness of the law is determined by justice and equality, and as long as laws and regulations are followed, this is usually achieved.
