

Start here.

A) The current health status of Aboriginal people today is getting better because most communities try and help Aboriginal people out.

An example of a community would be in Cowra, called Weijely, a Drug and Alcohol Rehabilitation. It help Aboriginal people that have an addiction to either drugs or alcohol.

Most Aboriginal people are healthier today because they care for their families and would rather support them rather than be sick with a disease.

Some Aboriginal people ~~is~~ just don't care and are not very healthy as the do drugs or get infections because they don't have a family to look after.

Aboriginal health status is slowly getting better because they have more opportunities nowadays than they use to have.