

Start here.

A - The affect of socioeconomic factors on housing for aboriginal people is major.

They have set up aboriginal housing in some suburban areas in Sydney with brand new units and houses - But most are not wealthy enough to stay long in these units. With very low income most of them live off aboriginal benefits to support their family and housing needs.