The impact of the Mabo decision gave a Indigenous Australians rights to land if they could ~~prove~~ ~~prove~~ ~~without~~ prove without any brakes in the line that their family had once lived on that land. But this was near impossible because of the 1920's - 60's stolen generation. The native title act gave Aboriginals the rights to own land but the native title act and the Mabo decision cross over each other, making it difficult for an indigenous Australian to own land.

Indigenous Australian still to this day haven't be able to gain all there land back.
