

Question 23 (4 marks)

How might the implementation of Australian land capability classification affect the profitability and sustainability of agricultural systems?

4

The implementation could affect the sustainability of agricultural systems as parts of the area could be secluded and shut off due to restrictions also some of the area could be listed therefore not able to be accessed resulting in a loss of land and farming benefits. Some plantations maybe classified under certain specifications.

X