Hey Mingming,

I have received and analysed the blog entry you have sent me. In terms of contemporary young people characteristics the blog itself reflects the open personality of expressing and documenting thoughts for the world to see. As we have been in a more digitised age, the blog also reflects the lifestyles of young people on the internet. The childish fairytale outlook on love and relationships is shown through the author's awe towards other stories of foreign ~~love~~ ~~stories~~ lovers. The next is also a rather negative ~~outlook~~ characteristic, where young people (possibly due to the one child policy) are far too reliant on their parents and their parent's money, shown in the final sentences where it urges others to become volunteers, ~~and~~ and getting their parents to pay. We can further discuss this topic sometime.

Best Regards,
