

Start here.

a) an environmental consideration is that when moving to a new location will production or building size have affect on the environment will waste form the company harm anything in the environment. ~~base~~ will there customers have an affect on the environment in the new location at size of the company.

B). When relocating and expanding a company does the company have to retrain staff for a different environment because at a larger number of employees and space it so they will have to ~~maintain~~ retain the better in OHS for the suitable ~~area that~~ atmosphere that they are in.

~~the~~ ~~expanding~~ also since there moving will ~~the~~ transportation be a problem for the staff or for the target consumers and is there enough car park space to hold more staff and more target consumers. also they might have to consider using a different approach on there company since it is a much larger company they might have to retrain staff in a new system, and this can have a negative affect there will be time loss in retraining and some staff might leave to a much more successful company with there new skills they have obtained. if the company was a ~~now~~ in the multination industry having more computers means more power usage so they have to consider how much power is needed to be supply to all computers also they need to insure like ~~the~~ ^{the} that if ~~the~~ equipment is at use in the new expanded company another issue that can arise is money, will the company have enough money to pay for the new staff for training, for the ~~the~~ new building & equipment.

Since the company is being expanded will communication be a problem if so they need to invest in a better telephone line & have more phones available. also what structure will the company be based on is every ones job the same one will there be teams now doing parts of diffent jobs since the company is expanding there for more ~~product~~ products need to be made faster & send to the consumer faster. if the company was to employ more staff will the ~~new staff~~ ~~be~~ company be pay staff evenly ~~or~~ or a as an individual. when expanding the company and building lighting needs to be consid as well since the building is bigger will there be an issue with lighting. & is there enough equipment for all staff. it transport is an issue for employers the company need to insure transport of the staff. the company also has to consider 'down fall' old

Additional writing space on back page.

When relocating and expanding a company it takes a lot of time and money, and will the company keep up with the needs of the consumers while in this transition.

You may ask for an extra Writing Booklet if you need more space.