

The tension between community interests and individual rights and freedoms within the criminal justice system are very different.

The tension between individuals interests and rights differ from the community.

Such as the chapel corby case, and the young 14 year old boy from Lake Macquarie NSW.

The community interests are for the young 14 year old boy from Lake Macquarie to be brought back to Australia and trialed here.

Like as the chapel corby case

The community might have thought she was older enough to deal with her mistakes in Bali.

Chapel says she was framed.

her individual rights and freedom are she has the right to freedom of speech but no freedom within the criminal justice system

Therefore the criminal justice system have the authority to leave them with what their sentence is.

Some community interests may include their safety.
