

Start here.

Why should you visit South Australia? South Australia is known for its wonderful climate and magnificent winery's. Not only does it offer ~~you~~ the beauty of a city in its capital city, Adelaide but as you head north you approach the fabulous Coober Pedy, where Australia's unbelievable geographical features are shown off.

Firstly you must find your way to South Australia, this can be done via cruise ships, <sup>Aeroplane</sup> ~~Aeroplanes~~, ~~or~~ car or rail services. Both cruise ships and aeroplanes arrive at the capital city of Adelaide, where you can start your journey exploring what this unique ~~a~~ city has to offer. Otherwise, if you are coming from the Northern Territory and you have just made your way through Darwin, Alice Springs and Uluru you can hop on the Ghan rail service which travels straight through the centre of Australia and takes you straight from the Northern Territory into South Australia. If you are visiting from Victoria you can hire a car and drive along the great ocean road until you reach South Australia. Therefore there are many forms of transport to reach South Australia, and remember if you are flying you must fly to Adelaide airport.

When you arrive, if arriving in between April to September you can expect a cold climate with temperatures ranging from  $10^{\circ}\text{C}$  -  $20^{\circ}\text{C}$ , otherwise if you are visiting between October and March you can expect temperatures averaging  $27^{\circ}\text{C}$  as it ~~is~~ will be Summer.

South Australia offers a wide variety of geographical features, including desert, beaches, lakes and rivers. If you are interested in visiting desert areas which are well known when visiting Australia, you are best off heading north of Adelaide into the centre of Australia and the top half of ~~the~~ South Australia. This is where you will find the famous red sandy desert landscape. Along your way, if you travel further to the ~~west~~ north-west of Adelaide you will find Coober Pedy, this is ~~is~~ a location famous for its underground houses. If you are looking for an unforgettable new experience than the South Australia tourism board recommends Coober Pedy as a must on your trip.

Not only can you visit the desert landscape in South Australia, there are also magnificent beaches, if you are looking for somewhere to make a day trip or to spend a few nights then Kangaroo Island is perfect for you. ~~to~~ Located off the coast of Adelaide, Kangaroo Island is famous for its unique wildlife and flora and fauna. On Kangaroo Island you can visit national parks or take ~~to~~ a boat side along the shore.

Additional writing space on back page.

If you are travelling with your partner or need a break from the children then the Barossa Valley is essential for you. Barossa Valley, located east of the capital city is world renown for it's delicious tasting wine. Here at the ~~the~~ Barossa ~~valley~~ valley you can take a wine tasting tour and a tour of the winery fields. This trip will ignite your taste buds and send you running back for more.

If you are more into cultural events you can take a trip to the YAM festival, YAM stands for Youth Arts and Music festival where the youth of South Australia show off their talent and culture through art and music.

In conclusion, visiting South Australia can be the trip of a lifetime. With it's unique geographical features and exotic places to visit, including Kangaroo Island, Coober Pedy, Adelaide and the Barossa Valley, Your trip ~~to~~ here will be unforgettable.

← Tick this box if you have continued this answer in another writing booklet.